Grace Schwindt's practice spans filmmaking, choreography and sculpture to offer intimate and probing reflections on history, memory and truth. Such works often incorporate and unfold from conversations the artist has with her subjects, from recollections of childhood to memories of political activism. This autumn the artist's ceramic installation Witnesses (Bones, Leaves and Other Creatures) (2022) is on view at the Busan Biennale, South Korea – a piece which developed out of a dialogue with a survivor of the notorious Brothers Home internment camp in Busan during the 1970s and '80s. Meanwhile, Schwindt opens a solo show in Switzerland later this month. At Kunstmuseum St. Gallen, the artist has created a theatrical setting for her sculptures and drawings that spill out from the museum into the parkland outside. En Liang Khong
